DESTINATION INDEPENDENCE:
WHAT FAMILIES CAN DO

Young people who have paid work experiences while still in high school have a better chance of being employed as an adult.

HAVING A JOB WHILE STILL IN HIGH SCHOOL TEACHES YOUTH ABOUT:

- Time management
- Following directions
- Developing a work ethic

I have a disability and I CAN Work

Families can do many things to support their child’s success on the job.

- Be supportive in helping your child explore their full work potential
- Learn solutions to common barriers your child may have to finding a job
- Describe your child’s strengths and abilities in a positive way
- Identify steps you can take now to support your child for life after high school

Promise can provide you with tools, tips and support for your child’s future career success and financial independence. Find out more by contacting us today:
